

Marset wins the DME Award

Marset has just won the DME award for the best design management in the small company category. The Design Management Europe Award recognises and rewards both public and private sector organisations that are committed to design as a strategic element for their development.

The DME Award is the only international award dedicated to excellence in design management. Winning the DME Award has therefore endorsed Marset's design as an integral part of its corporate culture.

On Thursday, 20th November, the nominees gathered in Saint Étienne, France. At the prize-giving, Javier Marset, together with Carlos Marset and Joan Gaspar, explained Marset's five senses of design: an inquisitive eye, an ear to the ground, an elegant touch, a nose for style & a taste for beauty.
