

Vetra Joan Gaspar

At first glance, Vetra could be no more than a traditional, old-fashioned, blown-glass lamp, but turning it on yields a surprise. The Vetra gives off more light than one would expect, without glare. Much of the light is directed downward, and the rest is filtered toward the inside of the shade, subtly illuminating it. Like an echo multiplying the light, when it's on, its entire outline is drawn out and seems to come alive. A contrasting layout in which the lamp proper becomes more visible and its light warmer.
