Studio Stockholm took on the task of giving Swedish gaming developer King a new headquarters that was centrally located and perfectly aligned with the company's ethos. The resulting design epitomizes King's motto – "Seriously Playful" – with a candy colored palette and playful furnishings that no doubt put smiles on their employees' faces.

Starting at the reception area with its two-toned pink front desk, there are a series of Dipping Lights by Marset that hang at different lengths in various colors above a pink Faye Toogood Roly Poly Chair for Driade.

Shades of purple, green, blue, pink, and yellow elevate every corner of the office space, which is broken up into smaller groupings for various types of working and relaxing.
